Iain Bonomy (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland)

Iain Bonomy; born Motherwell, Scotland: 15/01/1946; British citizen.
Judge of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia.

Dalziel High School, Motherwell [1958-1964].
University of Glasgow, LL.B. [Hons] [1964-1968].

Apprentice Solicitor, East Kilbride Town Council [1968-1970].
Partner, Ballantyne & Copland, Solicitors, Motherwell, Glasgow, etc [1971-1983].
Advocate [1984-1993].
Queen's Counsel [1993].
Advocate Depute [1990-1996].
Home Advocate Depute [1993-1996].

Senior Counsel to the Dunblane Inquiry (into the shooting of a number of young schoolchildren and their teacher) [1996].

Senator of the College of Justice [Judge in the Court of Session and the High Court of Justiciary, the highest courts within Scotland] [1997-2004].

Judge of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia. [June 2004-].

As an Advocate Depute, Iain Bonomy QC was one of a team of Crown counsel prosecuting exclusively in the High Court of Justiciary. As Home Advocate Depute, he was leader of that team. His functions included evaluating the evidence gathered alleging the commission of war crimes by residents of Scotland. At that time an Advocate Depute committed about 75% of his working time to Crown Office (the national prosecuting authority in Scotland). Throughout his time in Crown Office, he was involved in the preparation and presentation of the most serious criminal cases, including murder, serious contraventions of the Misuse of Drugs Act and conspiracies, and represented the Crown in criminal appeals.

As a judge of the highest courts within Scotland between January 1997 and May 2004, Lord Bonomy sat regularly in civil and criminal cases at first instance, and from time to time in civil and criminal appeals. During this period, about 70% of his time was spent on first instance crime. The principal criterion for prosecuting a case in the High Court of Justiciary was the prospect that, in the event of conviction, the sentence imposed would exceed 3 years' imprisonment.

Lord Bonomy is the author of "Improving Practice - The 2002 Review of the Practice and Procedure of the High Court of Justiciary". This report is currently being implemented through legislation in the Scottish Parliament. The report and the legislation involve a thorough review of all aspects of procedure in the prosecution of serious criminal offences.

Lord Bonomy is a regular contributor to Conferences on International Child
Abduction and to Judicial Seminars on the Role of the Judge at the Deutsche Richterakademie.

Name: Dr. ELHAGI ABDULKADER EMBERESH
Date & Place of birth: Surman, Libya, 1947
Nationality: Libyan
Social Status: Married

CURRENT POSITION: Chief Judge of Tripoli Court of Appeals
LANGUAGES: *Arabic *English

ACADEMIC STUDIES:

June 1971: Dr. Emberesh earned his Bachelor's degree in Law from the Law School of the Libyan University.

October 1971: Dr. Emberesh was appointed as Assistant Prosecutor at the Ministry of Justice and gained valuable experience in prosecuting an array of criminal cases, including petty crimes, serious felonies such as murder and other violent crimes, crimes against the sanctity of the family and crimes relating to human rights.

1974: Dr. Emberesh studied at the Law School "Biscayenne Provinces" in France. He earned a diploma of higher studies in common law and studied international, constitutional and administrative law and other subjects of common law. Subjects of interest included human rights and immigration of intellectuals and laborers and the problems they pose to international law. He also presented a 190 page thesis entitled "Disciplinary Crimes" which consisted of a comparative study between a penal crime and a disciplinary crime under the French and Libyan Laws. Dr. Emberesh earned his diploma upon presenting this thesis.

1976: Dr. Emberesh resumed work within the legal system in Libya, mainly prosecuting penal crimes, including those committed against human rights and by organized criminals against individuals or the security of the state.

Summer 1983: Dr. Emberesh joined "Salford University", in the United Kingdom. His studies focused on international law, and international organizations, the United Nations in general, and the Security Council and its role in maintaining international peace and security.

* In addition to the subjects mentioned, Dr. Emberesh presented a 190 page research paper on international organizations, with special reference to the League of Arab States. Among the subjects studied at Salford University were international economy and its problems, international trade and its theories, the international monetary system and the causes of its oscillation, and how states should react to inflation in such cases. Dr. Emberesh also studied political science and international relations, and how states act according to their national interests. Further, he studied geography with a special emphasis on the uses of satellites to obtain data, and the problems they create to international law, particularly when dealing with gathering military information and making discoveries of underground or underwater natural resources.

* Dr. Emberesh passed his Master's Degree examination and received his Master's Degree upon presentation of a series of mini researches and studies to "Salford University" in addition to the aforementioned main research which he conducted.

1991:

Dr. Emberesh earned his Doctorate Degree at the Law School at "Liverpool University". He completed his 510 page research paper on timely basis, while commuting between Liverpool and London where he used to frequent the Institute of High Legal Studies at the University of London. His Doctorate paper subject was the "Gulf of Sirt in International Law". This enabled him to view numerous international conventions and agreements, as well as specialized studies and researches in the field of international law.

* By an invitation from the University of London, he attended and was an active participant at an economic and legal seminar held at the University in Malta with the cooperation of the Libyan University.

* In 1991, after earning his Doctorate Degree, Dr. Emberesh returned to Libya to resume his duties in the legal field, this time with the rank of Chief Judge of an Appeals Court. During this period he worked as a General Counsel in the Tripoli Appeals Court to supervise all the criminal cases and participate in court's matters relating to major criminal cases against individuals, the sanctity of the family or the state over and above his attention to human rights cases, particularly those dealing with excessive use of force by the police when detaining or investigating suspects.

Dr. Emberesh was selected to serve as Head of the Inspection Department of all Judicial Agencies within the Tripoli Appeals Court, specializing in conducting investigations of all complaints against law enforcement personnel, in particular, cases relating to human rights, the freedom and independence of the judiciary, and all matters relating to the transfer, appointment or reprimand of officers of the law.

* Dr. Emberesh participated in a number of legal seminars covering different fields of law. He represented Libya in a number of international conferences including the one in London in July of 2002, which dealt with modernizing criminal justice. A number of research studies were presented concerning the new perception of criminal justice, for the purpose of urging states to cooperate in the discovery and the fight against crime through the exchange of information and the utilization of modern technologies in this field and to respect the legal and human rights of the indicted as well as facilitating trial procedures.

* Dr. Emberesh wrote a report about the aforementioned conference, which also dealt with topics such as terrorism in all its aspects and how states can combat it and cooperate with different states. Transnational organized crime was also discussed. The conference highlighted the diversity of cultures among nations, yet it stressed the importance of a united goal, for all to live in peace and freedom, and to cooperate to remove threats to peace and security for peoples and protect the economy.

* Dr. Emberesh was also a member of the Libyan delegation that participated in work sessions of the Conference of Arab Ministers of Justice, wherein a wide array of issues were discussed, among which were Arab cooperation concerning the United Nations Agreement to Fight Transnational Organized Crime, and the Protocols of the agreement. Also discussed was Arab coordination in international fora concerning measures to combat international terrorism, drafting a united Arab law for penal procedures, drafting an Arab agreement to combat transnational organized crime, Arab coordination concerning the United Nations Agreement to Combat Corruption, preparing a draft for an Arab agreement to combat corruption, an Arab agreement to combat terrorism and an instrument for its complementation with the International Criminal Court. The meeting issued recommendations to unite the Arab position in this respect, especially the positions of the Representatives of Arab States before the United Nations.

* Dr. Emberesh is considered one of the top experts in the field of law in general and, in the fields of criminal and international law in particular. With his studies in both France and England, Dr. Emberesh has a combined knowledge of the legal systems of both countries along with that of his country and those of the Arab world. He presented numerous research papers in order to obtain his Master's Degree and his Doctorate Degree from England along with a high diploma from France, equivalent to Master's Degree.

* His extensive field of work within the judicial system in Libya, in addition to his contributions to the field of penal law and the publications he authored in this field, enabled him to gain a rich and long experience in pronouncing judgments based of the principles of law and justice. He is also an active participant in the field of safeguarding human rights in Libya.

Bakone Melema Moloto (South Africa)

Judge Justice Bakone Melema Moloto is a judge of the High Court of South Africa and of the specialised Land Claims Court of South Africa. He was born on 26 July 1944.

He entered legal practice as a candidate attorney in 1976 and was admitted as an attorney in May 1978.

He practised for his own account as a sole practitioner shortly after admission until April 1986 when he went into partnership with colleagues including Selby Baqwa SC who later became the first Public Prosecutor appointed in South Africa after the transformation to democracy in 1994.

He left private practice in July 1987 to take up a full time post as Director of the Black Lawyers Association Legal Education Centre, a position he occupied until December 1992.

In 1993 he joined Eskom, the national electricity supply commission as contract manager in charge of contracts for the supply of coal to power stations for the generation of electricity. He remained in that position until 1995 when he was appointed as judge of the Land Claims Court.

He was appointed as judge of the High Court of South Africa in January 2003. He therefore has almost 10 years judicial experience, which includes both land claims and general jurisdictions.

His stint at the helm of the Black Lawyers Association Legal Education Centre exposed him to the practice of Human Rights under apartheid South Africa where through the Centre he represented disadvantaged communities in mostly labour, political and eviction cases. He also has vast experience in criminal law. The Legal Education Centre under him also focussed on the training of lawyers from Black communities on various aspects of the law including human rights law and labour law. The Centre also facilitated funding for legal defence of victims of apartheid by an increasing number of black lawyers, thus exposing them to wider litigation skills.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND DEMOCRATIZATION ADVOCACY

May-June 1995:

I was engaged by the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ) based in Geneva as a Human Rights Expert/International Observer at the trial of the former Head of State of Malawi, Dr Hastings Kamuzu Banda and three others for Human Rights violations during his rule. My mandate at the trial of Dr Banda and three others included the following:

- To obtain information about the conduct of the trial, the nature of the case against the accused and the legal framework under which they were being tried.

- To collect more general background information about the political and legal circumstances leading to the trial.
- To advertise before the court, the relevant authorities in Malawi and to the general and international public, the international interest and concern in the trial.

In particular, I was to ascertain whether:

- the trial was being conducted in accordance with the due process of the law;
- the trial was fair in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the International Convention on Civil and Political Rights;

Verify whether the following principles were applied viz:

- the independence of the judicial authorities;
 - the right of the accused to legal representation;
 - prohibition of torture;
 - access to a family lawyer/doctor;
 - the principle of non-retroactivity of laws;
 - the right to a public and expeditious trial;
 - the presumption of innocence;
 - the right to appeal;
- I held discussions with the relevant authorities in Malawi to bring to their attention the nature of my mission and to seek their assistance and cooperation in carrying out my mandate. I was allowed a number of house visits to the accused on Police Bond, viz, Dr Banda and Ms Cecilia Kazamira and a number of prison visits to the other two accused in custody throughout my mandate.
 - I attended court sessions, in a specially provided prominent position in the courtroom.
 - After my prison visits and further meetings and discussions with the relevant authorities, the accused in custody were allowed family/doctor visits. In due course, all four accused were acquitted of the offences charged.

From February-May 1994:

Appointed the ICJ's Human Rights Expert/International Observer to the Presidential and Parliamentary Elections in Malawi under the United Nations Electoral Assistance Secretariat (UNEAS), a Joint International Observer Group (JIOG). I was the Coordinator of an eleven-member team of International Jurists. During our mission, we, inter alia:

- Advised the National Consultative Council (NCC) and the Election Commission of Malawi on the Human Rights aspects to be included in the Civic Education Campaign. The NCC was a transitional government which was set up to govern Malawi before the elections, consisting of members from all political parties in Malawi.

- Coordinated the work of UNEAS, particularly the holding of Civic Education workshops and seminars with political parties, NGOs, the Police, the Army and Prison Officers and the various churches.
- Undertook preliminary studies and consultations with all interested parties, with a view to establishing a legislative and legal framework to safeguard human rights in Malawi, which culminated in the repeal of the old Constitution and other laws to prepare Malawi for the holding of multiparty democratic elections.

From May-June 1993:

I was commissioned by the ICJ as a Human Rights Expert/International Observer and Coordinator of a five-member Observer Mission to Malawi to observe the holding of a National Referendum to determine the future political system for Malawi. The referendum question was whether Malawi should remain a One Party State or adopt a Multiparty system of Government. Malawians overwhelmingly chose a Multiparty system of Government.
