South American zone of peace and cooperation

The General Assembly,

Convinced that peace, security and cooperation should be grounded in commitments that reinforce mutual trust and promote development and the overall well-being of peoples to the benefit of all humanity and in particular the peoples of South America,

Bearing in mind the initiatives of various Governments and regional groups in South America, such as the Andean Commitment to Peace, Security and Cooperation contained in the Declaration of Galápagos of 17 December 1989; the Declaration of MERCOSUR, Bolivia and Chile as a Zone of Peace signed in Ushuaia in July 1998; and the Lima Commitment and Andean Charter for Peace and Security signed on 17 June 2002,

Recalling the commitment undertaken in the Brasilia Communiqué issued on 1 September 2000¹ to create a South American zone of peace,

Recognizing that the bases for a project on the creation of a South American zone of peace and cooperation, formulated at the first meeting of Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the Andean Community, MERCOSUR and Chile, held in La Paz on 17 July 2001, constitute an appropriate set of guidelines geared to building that zone of peace and cooperation on firm foundations supported by the consensus of the whole region and based, among various other measures, on the fostering of trust, cooperation and ongoing consultation in the areas of security and defence, coordinated action in the relevant international forums, and transparency and gradual limitation of arms purchases under the system established in the Inter-American Convention on Transparency in Conventional Weapons Acquisitions, the United Nations Register of Conventional Arms and other arrangements established in the regional and international conventions related to this important topic,

Also recognizing the firm intent of the States of South America to adopt measures contributing to an effective and gradual limitation of defence expenditures in the region with the aim of having more resources available for the economic and social development of their peoples, in particular in order to devote the resources released from military budgets to combating poverty by moving forward with health and education programmes and other social benefits for the inhabitants, taking into account each country's security needs and current levels of expenditure,

Recalling the principles and norms of international law enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations and the Charter of the Organization of American States, especially those related to international peace and security,

Also recalling the important contribution of the United Nations in the sphere of international peace and security and, in that regard, the valuable input of the United Nations Regional Centre for Peace, Disarmament and Development in Latin America and the Caribbean with headquarters in Lima,

Convinced that the establishment of a zone of peace and cooperation in South America will help to strengthen international peace and security and promote the principles and purposes of the United Nations,

1. Welcomes the Declaration of the Presidents of South America, adopted at their second meeting, held in Guayaquil, Ecuador, on 27 July 2002, in which they declared South America to be a zone of peace and cooperation;
