ANNEX

Statement dated 31 July 1995 by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Kazakstan

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Kazakstan is disturbed by the turn of events in Bosnia and Herzegovina in recent days. The assault launched by Bosnian Serb units in eastern areas and the seizure of the Muslim enclaves of Srebrenica and Žepa have led to an escalation of the crisis and caused many casualties among the peaceful civilian population and the contingent of United Nations forces. In this connection, Kazakstan fully supports the statement issued by the United Nations Security Council on 25 July 1995 (S/PRST/1995/34), which condemned the actions of the Bosnian Serbs.

In the interests of general security, effective measures should be taken in order to prevent the conflict in Bosnia from reverting to a large-scale confrontation, with the grave risk of destabilizing the situation in the European continent.

At the same time, Kazakstan considers that lifting the embargo on the supply of weapons to the region would not be in keeping with international efforts to ease the tension in the former Yugoslavia, since it might lead to a withdrawal of the United Nations peace-keeping contingent, which, as is generally acknowledged, has thus far fully performed its duties of ensuring the supply of humanitarian aid and controlling the scale of the violence.

The possibilities of resolving the conflict in Bosnia have not yet been exhausted. To miss the chances of achieving peace would be unforgivable, especially on the eve of the fiftieth anniversary of the United Nations.
